Our Team

" Always striving to give you the best products and services by offering you great value for your money... "

Tshiamo Mosenyi, the company founder, been offering professional freelance audio engineering and production services in Gauteng since October 2012 mainly doing live sound engineering for various live music venues (mainly Bassline in Newtown and Kaldis Coffee) in the Johannesburg CBD and surrounding areas.

As a freelancer, Tshiamo started off as a back-line "stage-hands" for various sound companies and worked himself up the engineering ranks to monitor engineer and now has the credentials of a qualified sound and lights rigger as well as a 'Front of House' audio engineer. He oversees all production teams, communicates with clients, ensures production quality and enforces deadlines and budgets.

In terms of studio work, Sound Proprietors has a team of dedicated recording, mixing and mastering engineers who help with the overall connections and facilitating within the studio environment. Session musicians and instrument players are always on stand-by to be utilised according to the requirements of certain artists.

Our team of technicians, managed by Thulani Manyoni and Letsebela Mokoena are skilled and diligent engineers and they were trained by SARA (South African Roadies Association), a non-profit organisation. They are professional freelancers and are also an essential part of the Sound Proprietors workforce.

Our team has in-depth knowledge on corporate functions and large scale festivals and events as they are well versed in the audio engineering industry.

We use only professional and diligent trained individuals for stage-hands and back-line managers for all our events as the integrity of the client and Sound Proprietors needs to be withheld at all times, during and after our working endeavour.
